REV. DR. ISAAC P. CODDINGTON
Death of Former Pastor of First Universalist Church

Rev. Dr. Isaac P. Coddington, formerly Pastor of the First Universalist church here, died Friday at his home at Medford Hillside, near Boston, Mass. The funeral took place from his home Monday afternoon. Dr. Coddington's death followed an illness which extended over a period of three months.

Dr. Coddington was one of the best known ministers in this part of the state, his last charge being in Rochester where his efforts to make the parish larger and better were without end. His was of the disposition which easily makes friends and he drew people to him in large numbers. His work finally became too much for him, and he was the victim of a severe nervous [shock?].
