

[Penfield, Lois]

DIED.

In Whitestown, 4th inst., of inflammation on the lungs, after a very brief illness, Mrs. LOIS PENFIELD, consort of Mr. Orange Penfield, age 22. Amiable in manners, virtuous in life, affectionate and kind to all, she died lamented by all who had the happiness of knowing her. She has left a disconsolate husband and two small children (the youngest about four weeks old) to mourn her early exit. She died as she had lived, firm in the faith, joyful in hope of a world's salvation through a crucified Saviour. Calm and peaceful was her soul in the dying hour, "unruffled as the summer's sea when not a breath of air flies over its surface." This is Universalism in death.

Evangelical Magazine & Gospel Advocate, Utica NY, Sat. 13 Nov 1830
[a Universalist newspaper]

Transcribed on 12 Aug 2012 by Karen E. Dau of Rochester, NY