

[Le Fevre, Clement Fall]

CLEMENT FALL LE FEVRE, D. D., of Milwaukee, Wis., died December 12, 1882, aged 85 years. Dr. Le Fevre was ordained in 1821, as a presbyter of the Church of England, and placed over the parish at Sherbrook, Canada. Here he was eminently successful; but having become drawn to the Universalist faith, against all the prejudices of his education and all dictates of interest, he entered its ministry in 1829. For many years he was a beloved and honored pastor, a part of the time connected with the denominational press [the Gospel Anchor, published in Troy, NY]. In the latter years of his life he had retired from the active duties of his profession; but his faith remained strong to the last, and he ever cherished a fond desire for the prosperity of that branch of the Church with which he had so long been connected.

Universalist Register, Boston MA, 1883, p. 95

Transcribed on 3 Dec 2011 by Karen E. Dau of Rochester, NY