ENDS SERMON AND DIES

Prominent Universalist Clergyman Succumbs After Morning Service

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 22—After preaching a sermon of unusual rigor and eloquence, Rev. James Minton Pullman, D.D., pastor of First Universalist Church of this city, a clergyman widely known in that denomination, died suddenly of apoplexy at his home to-day. At the conclusion of the morning service he said that a feeling of illness had almost overcome him in the pulpit. When he reached home a message was dispatched for a physician, who arrived just as Mr. Pullman fell dead on the stairs leading to his chamber.

Rev. Mr. Pullman was a brother of the late George M. Pullman, the parlor car builder. He was 67 years of age, a native of Portland, N.Y. His studies for the ministry were completed at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N.Y., from which he was graduated in 1860. He was called to the First Universalist Church of Troy in 1861, and served as its pastor until 1868, when he accepted a call from the Sixth Universalist Church, New York City.

He was the organizer and first president of the Young Men's Universalist Association of New York in 1869, and was elected secretary of the Universalists' general convention in 1868 and 1877. He was also president of the New York State Universalist Association and chairman of the publication board of the State Convention.

During his ministry in New York the Church of Our Savior was built and dedicated in 1874. He came to Lynn in 1885. A widow and son survive him. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.
