Mrs. Adams Dies; Amaranth Matron

Florence White Adams, 66, a resident of Rochester for the last 20 years, died of cancer Wednesday (July 1, 1964) at her home, 99 Bowman St.

Mrs. Adams, born and educated in Wellsville, spent most of her life in Palmyra, where she was an employe[e] of Garlock, Inc. She and her husband, Vernon Adams, operated a dairy and vegetable farm on Adams Road, Palmyra, for nearly 30 years.

She was active in Grange work and with the Home Bureau in Palmyra, and was a past matron of Eureka Chapter, OES, in Macedon. She was an active member of the Universalist Church in Macedon.

She and her husband moved to Rochester when Mr. Adams began working at Eastman Kodak Co.'s Camera Works. While here Mrs. Adams was matron of Ray-Diant Courth, Order of Amaranth.

Mrs. Adams suffered from cancer for four years, and when confined to her home would send cards and gifts to seriously ill children in nearby hospitals.

Mrs. Joseph Thompson, her daughter, said she was "always interested in other people who were sick, especially children. She tried not to think about herself."

Besides her husband and daughter, Mrs. Adams is survived by a brother, Spencer White, and a grandson, Daniel Magone, both of Rochester.
