

[Adams, John Alden]

John Alden Adams

Word reached Brooklyn today of the death at Pensacola, Fla., of John Alden Adams, son of the Rev. Dr. John Coleman Adams of Hartford, Conn. Mr. Adams was well known among the parishioners of All Souls' Universalist Church, when it was located on South Ninth street, in the Eastern District of Brooklyn, of which his father was pastor for eleven years, before accepting a call to the Church of the Redeemer, at Harford. Young Mr. Adams was fond of athletics and an expert at canoe sailing, and in a canoe accident on the Farmington River, some years ago, nearly lost his own life trying to save his companion, Kenneth W. Hayden of Hartford, who was drowned when the canoe overturned.

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, New York NY, Mon. 13 Mar 1916

John Alden Adams

JOHN A. ADAMS, son of the Rev. Dr. John Coleman Adams of Hartford, Conn., and formerly of Brooklyn, died on Sunday in Pensacola, Fla.

New York Times, New York NY, Tue. 14 Mar 1916

Transcribed on 7 Dec 2014 by Karen E. Dau of Rochester, NY