

[Burroughs, Theodore]

THEODORE BURROUGHS DEAD.
Flatbush Resident Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Theodore Burroughs, one of the old Produce Exchange merchants of Washington Market, died today at his home, 418 East Eighteenth street, Flatbush. Death was due to heart disease.

Mr. Burroughs was an old resident of Bushwick, and for many years had been prominent in All Souls' [Universalist] Church, where his son-in-law, Fortescue Metcalf, is a Sunday school teacher, and a prominent member of the Young Men's Club.

Mr. Burroughs is survived by a wife [his second] and two married daughters. He had been ill since Sunday, but the illness was not thought to be serious.

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, New York NY, Fri. 3 Apr 1914

DIED.

BURROUGHS.—On Friday, April 3, 1914, Theodore Burroughs, beloved husband of Agnes Z. Burroughs, at his residence, 418 East 18th St., Flatbush. Funeral services will be held at All Souls' Universalist Church, corner of Ocean and Ditmas Avs., Flatbush, on Sunday afternoon, April 5, at 2:30.

New York Times, New York NY, Sun. 5 Apr 1914

Transcribed on 13 Apr 2024 by Karen E. Dau of East Rochester, NY