

[Buswell, Warren Murray]

DEATHS.

In Brownville, Feb. 29th, WARREN MURRAY, only son of E. M. and Emeline V. Buswell, aged ten months and 20 days. This child was one of a pair of twins; a few hours before its death it was apparently well, and at play on the floor. It was taken with a fit, and died very suddenly. Oh, who can describe the agony of that mother, who was so soon called to part with her only son—her anguish was most intense. She seemed sometimes almost distracted. The blow came so unexpectedly that it seemed to rend her heart with the deepest sorrow. O God, send the influence of thy grace to this house of mourning. May they feel resigned to thy righteous will, and bow in humble submission to thy doings. May they realize that this dispensation came from a Being too wise to err, and too good to afflict unnecessarily; and that he knows what is best—that just and right are all his works. Consolations of divine truth tendered to the mourners on March 2d by
