

[Case, Seymour W.]

Bristol, N.Y.— Seymour W. Case died at his home near Bristol Center on Monday night, January 26th, 1874, aged 61 years. Mr. Case was born in Bristol, and was one of a family of ten sons and four daughters, all except one of whom lived to adult age, and all of whom have occupied highly respectable positions in society. Although a farmer, and a resident of a quiet country town, Mr. Case was what every American citizen should be, a student of his country's history. Mr. Case left a widow, two sons and one daughter, three sons having preceded him into the world of light. His funeral was attended in the Universalist Church of Bristol on the 29th inst. The services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. H. Jewell and by the Masonic Fraternity, of which he was an honored member. The great throng of people in attendance, composed of both rich and poor, proclaimed in terms, stronger than any words could do, the estimation in which he was held by his fellow citizens. May the useful and honorable life thus closed have many imitators.
