ANOTHER NIAGARA PIONEER SUCCUMBS
Mrs. Anna Castle Lived In this County for Seventy-Two Years

Another death was added today to the list of Niagara county pioneers who have passed into the great beyond, when Mrs. Anna Castle, 83, of Vernon street, Middleport, succumbed in her home to old age infirmities.

Mrs. Castle, who would have celebrated her 84th birthday on Sept. 12, came to this country from England when she was a girl of eleven and settled with her parents in Niagara county. She has lived in the county ever since.

She was the widow of Amos A. Castle, who died four years ago. She was a member of the First Universalist church at Middleport, and all its societies, and Princess Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Mrs. Castle is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jessie Evinger, at home, and one son, Harry Castle, Rochester. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in the home, the Rev. Donald K. Evans officiating. Burial will be in Hartland Central cemetery.
