

[Coakley, Nellie A. Clarke]

NELLIE A. COAKLEY

Nellie A. Coakley, wife of Daniel J. Coakley, of 120 So. Union Street, died Monday night in her 34th year, after an illness that confined her to her bed for nine weeks. Funeral services were conducted Thursday by Rev. Mr. [William Wallace] Rose from her late home, the interment being at Riverside. Mrs. Coakley is survived by her mother, Mrs. Cora B. Clarke of Buffalo, her grandmother, Mrs. Helen Hare of Rochester and a sister, Mrs. Theodora Hilton of Auburn.

Mrs. Coakley has been a familiar figure at the church since her grandmother, Mrs. Hare, returned to the city. She was a member of the Wooden Class, and was invariably in church, always helping with her cheery presence. Quiet and unassuming, yet a woman whose strength and energy promised much when better acquainted. All who knew her will mourn this untimely going, and their sympathy will go out to the family, and especially to the grandmother whose constant companion she was.

Our Outlook, First Universalist Church, Rochester NY, Fri. 1 Jul 1921

Transcribed on 20 Aug 2012 by Karen E. Dau of Rochester, NY