

[Green, Martha T. White]

OBITUARY.

Martha T. Green, second daughter of Israel White, was born at Annsville, Oneida Co., N.Y., February 5th, 1834; was married to William F. Green October 3d, 1860, and died at Jamestown, October 27th, 1883, leaving a husband, one son, two brothers, and one sister, besides many other relatives and friends to mourn her loss. Coming to this place in 1862, she has been a resident among us until her removal to Jamestown a year or more ago. By her pleasant ways and loving disposition, she soon won her way into every heart so that the circle of her friends was only limited by her acquaintance. With a love for the beautiful strong in her nature she surrounded herself with flowers and other attractions which her cultivated taste could so well provide, and her home was always the reflection of her own heart, a place of beauty, where here friends were ever welcome. She united with the Universalist church in this place soon after her arrival here, and while her health remained was a faithful worker in its behalf. For nine years she had been an invalid, and nearly all that time a great sufferer. But through all that time her courage or her faith never forsook her. Surrounded by loving friends, with all the care which a devoted husband and relatives could bestow, she sank peaceably and calmly into perfect rest, to which for many years she had been a stranger. It could but be a welcome change for her.

Brief funeral services were held at her late residence in Jamestown Monday morning, when the remains were brought by train to Sherman and taken to the residence of J. T. Green, where the funeral was held in the afternoon, Rev. W. O. Allen officiating.
