

[Harp, George]

George Harp, 58, dispatcher for the New York Central Railroad, was found dead in his Rochester office early Sunday morning by W. J. O'Brien, telegraph operator. Death was ascribed to a heart attack and Coroner David H. Atwater issued a certificate based on natural causes.

Mr. Harp had been employed by the railroad for 35 years, beginning work at Wayneport. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Harp of Macedon. Surviving relatives are his wife, Mrs. Clara Harp, one daughter, Miss Lois Harp, a son, Arthur Harp, and a granddaughter, all of Rochester; also a sister, Mrs. Alice Westley, and a brother, Gideon Harp, both of Macedon. Mr. Harp was a member of Macedon Lodge 665, F. & A. M.

Funeral services were conducted at the home, 112 Augustine street, yesterday, Rev. John O. Bennett, pastor of Macedon Universalist church, officiating. Burial was made at Macedon cemetery with Masonic ceremonies.
