

[Huling, Sally]

DEATHS.

At Saratoga Springs, on the 17th of March last, of a lingering consumption, Mrs. SALLY HULING, consort of Mr. Salmon Huling, aged 48 years. Long and familiarly have we known the amiable subject of this notice. The history of her former faith and conversion to Universalism is truly given in an article entitled "Narrative: Prejudice is strong but the love of God is stronger," originally published in the Evangelical Magazine (old series) in 1828, and since then republished in the Christian Visitant and several other Universalist periodicals. She was the "Mrs. H." there mentioned. And most worthily and faithfully has she exemplified the character there given her for the last eleven years of her life. The glorious doctrine of a world's salvation through a crucified Redeemer was her joy and consolation in life, her solace and triumph in death. She longed for the hour of her dissolution to come, and when it arrived she sweetly fell asleep in Jesus without a struggle or a groan, and went home to her Father and her God. She has left behind a fond husband, a large family of children and a numerous circle of relatives who will long, and dearly and gratefully cherish her memory. May the consolations of the Gospel be richly theirs. "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like hers."
