

[Hull, Darius]

DEATHS.

At Venice, Cayuga county, on the 24th ult. [24 Dec 1830], Mr. Darius Hull, in the 54th year of his age. Mr. Hull was among the first settlers of the town in which he resided. He was a man possessed of the most temperate habits, and the strictest honesty. He embraced the doctrine of the final "restitution of all things," in his youth, and continued steadfast in the enjoyment of the same, as long as he retained his rational faculties. Soon after he was confined to his house, he became excessively deranged, and continued so until the day of his death. Mr. Hull has left an aged and amiable widow, a number of children, and a numerous circle of relatives, to mourn the sudden departure of an affectionate husband, father and friend. His funeral was attended on the 25th ult., when the consolations of the gospel were tendered to the afflicted, together with a numerous concourse of friends, from the appropriate words of St. Paul to the Thessalonians, iv:13. "But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope." May the richest blessings of the Friend of the fatherless and the God of the widow, rest and abide upon the remaining relatives and friends—may they be prepared by his grace for every event of life, supported in the hour of their dissolution; and eventually be raised to life unending, beyond the grave. That this may be their happy lot, is the ardent desire, fervent prayer and unwavering belief of
