

[Huntington, Sarah]

DIED, At the residence of her son, in Palmyra, on the 8th ult., Mrs. Sarah Huntington, consort of Jedediah Huntington, in the 77th year of her age.— Her disease was an affection of the lungs, which for two weeks confined her to the bed of sickness and death. Mrs. H. was a native of Connecticut, from whence she removed when quite young to Vermont, where she was married. From thence she removed to Lower Canada, and resided there twenty years. During her residence in Canada, she embraced the faith of a world's salvation, and walked by its light through the journey of life.

She was a consistent Universalist, and adorned the doctrine with a well ordered life, and Christian conduct. For several years past she resided in Conesus, Liv.[Livingston] co., N.Y., where a large circle of friends was formed, who will mourn her departure to the spirit land...

Her aged companion, and surviving children, although stricken with grief, lean for support on the ample promises of the better covenant...
