

[Ketchum, Cynthia A. Conklin]

Mrs. Cynthia A. Ketchum, relict of the late Frank Ketchum, died at her home in this town last Saturday morning. She had been a great sufferer from consumption for several years past, and her decease, although sudden, was not unexpected. Mrs. Ketchum was born in the town of Richmond, in this county, April 11th, 1845. When about three years of age, her father, Stephen Conklin, died, and she came to live with her grandparents in this town, where she has resided except at brief intervals ever since. In 1872 she married George Rohr; after six years Mr. Rohr died, and in 1883, she married Frank Ketchum who died two years later. Since that time Mrs. Ketchum has lived a very quiet retired life. She was a member of St. Paul's Universalist church, and until her health failed was a regular attendant. She was very ladylike and refined in her life, much respected and beloved and met the ever shifting lights and shadows of life with quiet fortitude and christian trust. She leaves no very near relatives, three aunts and a number of cousins, Chas. W. Dane of this town is her cousin, and he has cared for her during the past five or six years. The funeral was held from her late residence Tuesday afternoon, and was attended by a large number of friends and neighbors. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Legal. The remains were laid in the family lot in the village cemetery.
