

[Mosher, Jeremiah]

DEATHS.

In Dansville, Steuben county, N.Y., December 9th, 1836, JEREMIAH MOSHER, aged 54 years. Br. Mosher was long afflicted with cancer, to which was added consumption in his last days. In his youth he embraced Universalism, not by hearing it preached, but by reading the Bible. For many years he stood alone in his views, while he refuted the arguments and bore the scoffs of his bitter opposers. But his last were his happiest days.— An example of patience and resignation, he left this world, while even his enemies were constrained to say he was emphatically a Christian. By his request the funeral discourse was delivered by Br. A. [Asa] Upson, on the 11th, to a numerous circle of mourners and a large concourse of neighbors.
