

[Page, Julia]

DEATHS.

At Page Brook, in the town of Greene, Jan. 18th, Miss JULIA PAGE, daughter of Mr. Jared Page, aged 17 years.

Possessing a kind disposition, a cheerful temper, amiable and accomplished manners, and a well cultivated mind, she could but be sought after in the circle in which she moved, and esteemed for her many conspicuous virtues and attractions. Her death has prematurely blasted the fond anticipations of tender and obliging parents, and other near and dear relatives and friends; but while they mourn their loss of one whom they delighted to love, some of them sorrow not without hope.

Her youthful heart was deeply imbued with the sentiment of universal grace, which the writer presented in both its practical and doctrinal bearings, to a very large concourse of people, mostly of an opposite faith, at her funeral, January 20th. Elder Guy, pastor of the Baptist church in that place, kindly and appropriately aided in the services.

J. T. G. [Rev. John Temple Goodrich]

Evangelical Magazine & Gospel Advocate, Utica NY, Fri. 17 Feb 1843
[a Universalist newspaper]