

[Palmitier, Adele L.]

Dr. Palmitier Dies; Woman Physician
Had Practiced Here For 40 years Until Retirement in 1937

Dr. Adele L. Palmitier, 81, who, until her retirement about two years ago, had practiced medicine in the Flatbush section for 40 years, died yesterday in her home at 3920 Farragut Road.

Born in Germany, Dr. Palmitier came to this country as a girl of 6 and had lived in Brooklyn since then. She was graduated from the New York Electric Medical College in March, 1889, and was a member of the Medical Society of Kings County and the New York Anesthetists Society. For 25 years she resided and had her office on New York Ave., between Farragut and Glenwood Roads, and later was located on Brooklyn Ave.

Dr. Palmitier was a member of the Flatbush Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, a past matron of the Wyona Court of the Order of Amaranth and a past district deputy of the latter order. She was one of the oldest members of All Souls Universalist Church, Ocean and Ditmas Aves.

Surviving are a son, Lewis L. Palmitier, who, for a number of years, was active in Republican politics in Flatbush, and a granddaughter, Edna E. Palmitier. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Moadinger Funeral Parlors, 1120 Flatbush Ave., by the Rev. Cornelius Greenway, pastor of All Souls Church. Burial will be private.
