

[Rhodes, Caroline M. Scofield]

Death of Mrs. Rhodes

After an illness of about five months, Mrs. Caroline M. Rhodes died at the home of her sister, Mrs. D. B. Harrigan, on West Main street, Thursday afternoon, August 22. The funeral services were held at the residence, Friday afternoon, the Rev. E. A. [Alice] Bradley [Universalist] officiating.

Caroline M. Scofield was born in Masonville, Delaware county, N.Y., August 29, 1824, and lived there all her early days. At the age of 23 she was united in marriage to Erwin B. Rhodes. They made their home at Shongo for a number of years and later at Titusville, where Mr. Rhodes died some fifteen years ago. About twenty years ago she became identified with the Universalist Church, of which she has always been a consistent and worthy member. The deceased is survived by one son, one brother, F. H. Scofield, of Brisbin, N.Y., and a sister, Mrs. Harrigan, with whom she has made her home for some time.
