

[Seymour, Charles]

Bristol, N. Y.—Died, of paralysis, January 29, Mr. Charles Seymour, aged 69 years. Mr. Seymour had been at work in the woods that forenoon, ate a hearty dinner, and went eastward from his home, and as he was passing the residence of R. W. Travis, he was met by his sons, George and John Travis, who were drawing wood for Mr. Travis. They had partially unloaded the wood and on looking up the road they saw some object lying in the road. On going to it, they found it to be the lifeless body of Mr. Seymour. He was conveyed to his home, some half a mile distant, and Dr. Mallory of Bristol Center was immediately called. On examination, he reported "that death was caused by a full and complete shock of paralysis." Funeral from the Universalist church today at 1 o'clock, Rev. F. B. Peck officiating.
