

[Strong, Reuben T.]

In Bergen, on the 10th inst., Mr. REUBEN T. STRONG, aged about 28 years. Few individuals have left this rudimental sphere, within the circle of my acquaintance, for the spirit land, in such a subdued and reconciled frame of mind as the subject of this notice. Having been educated in the great principles of the restoration of an imperfect world, by a kind and well instructed father, and possessing an inquiring mind concerning the developments of eternal truth, his soul became satisfied with the mercies of God, and he was prepared to suffer under the progress of consumption without a murmur, anxiously and hopefully awaiting his release from the body, that he might join the harmonious circles in heaven. He has left an affectionate companion, and father, and sisters, who sympathize in the same faith, and who mourn not as those without hope. They are comforted. Funeral services were held in the Presbyterian church at Byron Centre, on the 12th inst., by the writer.

C. H. [Rev. Charles Hammond]

Christian Ambassador, Auburn NY, Sat. 24 May 1851
[a Universalist newspaper]

Transcribed on 17 Oct 2011 by Karen E. Dau of Rochester, NY