

[Thayer, Fidelia]

Death of Mrs. Fidelia Thayer

"Grandma" Thayer, as she was called by many people, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Susan Babbitt in Corry Thursday night, at the advanced age of ninety-four years. She had always been very active up to the time of her fall in April when her hip was broken. Since then she has been confined to her bed and gradually failing.

Mrs. Thayer was an exceptionally bright woman, [with] a genial, cheerful disposition, loving her friends and receiving large measures of love and admiration in return. She was an ardent Universalist, finding the faith good to live by and comforting in her last days.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Byron Fenner of Westfield, and Mrs. Susan Babbitt of Corry, and one son, Joshua L. Thayer of Sherman.

A brief funeral service was held at Corry Saturday and the remains were taken to Westfield where the funeral was held Sunday afternoon; burial in the cemetery of that place beside her husband.
