DEATH OF MRS. BELLE B. WALL

Mrs. Belle B. Wall, for thirty years well known as one of the most active members of All Souls Universalist Church, Flatbush, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Fleming, at Valley Stream, L.I., yesterday. Mrs. Wall's home was at 658 East Thirty-second street, Flatbush. She had been ill for the past four or five weeks.

As a member of All Souls Church Mrs. Wall made her influence felt in almost every important movement that occupied the attention of its members. She was prominently identified with the Sunday school, served on various church committees and was a power for good.

Mrs. Wall's husband, William H. Wall, survives her and she leaves a son, Alfred [Albert] D. Wall.
