

[Whipple, Jane A.]

Jane A. Whipple

Jane A. Whipple¹, wife of John D. Whipple of 40 University avenue, died yesterday, after a lingering and painful attack of paralysis, which was brought on by malaria. She was born in the town of Duanesburg, Schenectady county, February 13, 1829, and was united in marriage with John D. Whipple, December 27, 1848. In the spring of 1854 they removed to Monroe county, settling in the town of Irondequoit, where they resided until four years ago, when they moved into the city. Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss, four children—Marsh Whipple, of San Francisco, Cal.; Mrs. Joseph Walzer, of Irondequoit; Mrs. Allison J. Potter and Miss Carrie R. Whipple, of Rochester. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon from her late residence, 40 University avenue.

Union and Advertiser, Rochester NY, Fri. 17 Mar 1882

Transcribed on 4 Aug 2016 by Karen E. Dau of Rochester, NY

¹ Jane Whipple was a member of the First Universalist Church of Rochester.