

[Williams, Jennie Dye]

Mrs. Jennie D. Williams

Mrs. Jennie Dye Williams passed away April 11, after several weeks illness.

Funeral services were held from her late home, 35 Main street, Monday afternoon.

Rev. Harry Wright, pastor of the Universalist church, of Holcomb, officiated. Burial was in Prospect Lawn cemetery.

Surviving are her daughter, Eleanor Dalzeil and granddaughter, Jane Dalziel of Hamburg, and 2 brothers, Perry and Earle Dye, of Boston.

Mrs. Williams was born in Buffalo but moved to Boston, with her widowed mother and brothers, when a small child.

After finishing school in Boston she attended Griffith Institute in Springville for 2 years and united with the Universalist church there.

Later she was in the millinery business in Boston until her marriage to Casper Williams in 1900, when she went to reside in Gowanda.

There were 2 children born to this union, Eleanor and the late Harland, who passed away in 1923.

Mrs. Williams moved to Boston later, where she again opened a millinery shop and was there until 1919, when she bought the present shop on Main street, where she continued in business until about 2 months ago.

She was a member of the King's Daughters, and Home bureau.

Mrs. Williams was a devoted mother, generous in her dealings and ever thoughtful of others. She will be greatly missed by her family and all her dear friends.
