

[Wilson, George M.]

WILSON.—In Rochester, N.Y., May 16, of consumption, Lieut. Geo. M. Wilson, aged 24 years.

Lieut. Wilson returned from the South last summer, after an absence of nearly three years. His face revealed the marks of disease, contracted in the swamps of Louisiana. The cold winds of our northern winter developed consumption, and as nature put forth her early beauty, his soul fled from the cares of earth to rest with its Maker. Br. Wilson was a young man of remarkably good habits, promising ability, and a firm believer in the sacred truth of Universalism. His faith remained bright to the last, and he passed away full of hope and trust. He leaves a widowed mother, a younger brother, and a large circle of friends to mourn his absence. We regret that he left us so early, but we also rejoice in the blessed assurance that "our loss is his gain."

Services attended by the writer.
